

Facts, Truth, and Honesty really are a stupid person's kryptonite

Written by Jim W

Thursday, 15 July 2010 09:13 - Last Updated Wednesday, 14 July 2010 23:50

My initial reaction to seeing the news this AM was irritation over the smug little puke Robert Erickson dumping pennies on the table and disrupting the meeting at Ol' Mexico yesterday. And then the subsequent "interview" afterwards, where this smug little puke got air time to "threaten" he'd be around in the future, all because Mr. Emmer dares to agree with the Arizona laws concerning illegal aliens. But contained within the video was something that pushed me to an entirely new level of irritation...

I know someone in the video .

Someone who, on her social media page, mentioned that Mr. Emmer "doesn't get it".

Someone who lives in a home that was purchased by her boyfriends dad (because neither she nor her boyfriend could get a loan themselves, but they had to have a house because they were having a kid).

Someone who, in over 4 years of residing in this home, has yet to make ONE house payment.

Someone that has taken full advantage of every single handout program that is available to scrape together "support" for her kid.

Someone who doesn't have the slightest understanding of the minimum wage argument, only that she's entitled to make as much money as possible for as little work as possible, and learned all she has about Mr. Emmer's stance through the local media...and a friend that claims to know all there is to know about Emmer's stance.

Someone who spends a great deal of that "money for her child" on cigarettes and booze...right along with her boyfriend. Oh, and they have cable, cell phones, and 5 vehicles in their driveway...and plenty of toys.

Someone who will be voting in the next election.