Liberals love to whine that it would be impossible to round up and deport the 20 million illegal aliens in the USA today. This is a bullshit argument as no one rounded them up and brought them here, they all came on their own and are free to leave on their own. Arizona has discovered a way to make this happen.

An estimated 100,000 illegal immigrants have left Arizona in the past two years as it cracked down on illegal immigration and its economy was hard hit by the recession. A Department of Homeland Security report on illegal immigrants estimates Arizona's illegal immigrant population peaked in 2008 at 560,000, and a year later dipped to 460,000.

"The main thing is, we just want them to leave," Gheen said, adding that if all immigration laws were enforced, the number of illegals would be reduced to less than 1 million in 10 years.

Here is a crazy idea, if all 50 states decided to enforce the law we would have a very small illegal immigration problem.
