The amount of lying I see on the left never ceases to amaze me. I have long ago concluded not only they have no shame, but that assume that the American public is astoundingly stupid.

Check out this article where Nancy Pelosi's lies are so blatant that the author is unable to hide them.

U.S. House of Representatives Speaker Nancy Pelosi said on Thursday she was confident of satisfying Democratic concerns about a Senate-approved healthcare bill and passing the measure.

*Pelosi made the comment at her weekly news conference -- just hours after one lawmaker said a dozen House Democrats opposed to abortion were willing to kill the legislation unless it satisfies their demand for language barring federal funding of the procedure.

Their threat to kill healthcare reform came a day after President Barack Obama launched a final push to pass the overhaul, a top domestic priority, and urged Democrats in Congress to vote on the bill this month, even without Republican support.

Pelosi voiced confidence that Democrats will prevail over what she said was Republican obstructionism and win passage of landmark legislation that Obama will sign into law.

"What has happened in the last year, in the past year, in the United States Senate is a total obstruction by the Republican senators," Pelosi said.

Earth to Fucking San Fran Nan! Bart Stupak and the other anti-abortion congressmen holding up the bill are Democrats. The Democrats have a majority in the House. The Democrats had a super majority in the Senate until very recently. Every Senator or Representative that has slowed down passage of this legislation since last summer has been a Democrat. Your own party hates this fucking bill. Quit blaming people that don't have the votes to stop anything.
